

Introduction & Map of NANTONG

南通简介&地图

Nantong, situated on the northern shore of the Yellow Sea, faces Shanghai across the Yangtze River.

In China, Nantong was one of the first cities to adopt modern culture, science and education system. Some of the earliest normal schools, private museums and textile schools in the country had been established here.

Presently, the city is known for its many museums of different themes such as Nantong City Museum, Nantong Textile Museum, Nantong Kite Museum, Nantong Printed Blue Nankeen Museum and Nantong Abacus Museum.

Landscape Sceneries 山水风光

■ Haohe River Scenic Area

The old town area has a shape resembling Arabic number eight. A boat tour at night on the moat surrounding the town area would be accompanied by swans, gulls and ospreys. You could also catch a glimpse of Nantong astonishing past at historical sites such as Tianning Temple, Beijige wall relic site and Wenfeng Pagoda.

■ Langshan Hill Scenic Area

Langshan Hill, which means 'Wolf Hill' in Mandarin, is 109 meters above sea level. The hill is famous due to its relation to Buddhism. A path laying between the verdant forest leads to the hilltop. Standing on the Zhiyun Tower at hilltop, one could enjoy unobstructed view of the Yangtze River. Accompanying the Zhiyun Tower are two Buddha temples that constantly draw many believers.
